THE SOL EUROPEAN FORUM IN STOCKHOLM MAY 21 -23, 2012

Welcome to Stockholm and The SoL European Forum May 21st – 23rd 2012 to explore the TRANSFORMATION OF VALUES AND ORGANIZATIONS IN A NEW REALITY!

- How can we contribute to the systemic change going on in organizations, business and society at large (economy, ecology, politics ...)?
- Is there a need for a new generation of leadership?
- How can we, as a SoL community, engage our collective intelligence to address today's challenging issues

SoL Sweden, on behalf of The Society for Organizational Learning and the collective European SoL communities, is delighted to invite you to participate in this SoL European Forum in the beautiful surroundings of Stockholm in order to explore the shift taking place in Europe right now and its challenge for our corporations and societies. The SoL European Forum welcomes participation from the whole Global SoL Society.

We are delighted that SoL Founder Peter Senge and Barret Brown, specialists in leadership for sustainability, already have agreed to be with us to contribute at this inspiring Forum.

A new generation Leadership

In the business environment multinational companies have grown into becoming one of the strongest global forces while being more and more challenged by a rapidly shifting economy as well as social and climate changes. Simultaneously a broad wave of social entrepreneurship and innovation is emerging. The new generation of companies are contributing to real change in harmony with the needs of people and society. New business models are rapidly emerging, built on transparency, values and collaboration in cooperation with consumers and competitors. A combined economical, ecological and social shift changes the reality for leadership both in organizations and society at large.

The core essence of the new generation of leadership calls for people's participation. It comes down to you and me and what we can create together. It's not a question about age, it's about our ability and courage to take a new leadership in our personal and professional lives. It raises questions such as: How do we want to lead and be led? How do we want to organize and be organized? How can we inspire and be inspired? And how can we bring the new leadership to emerge?

We strongly believe that you are part of the new generation of leadership and welcome you to explore and co-create the new reality at The SoL European Forum 2012 from a perspective of Organizational Learning and Systemic change!
